Ms. Shay Olivarria,

Thank you for presenting, "I Don't Have Money to Save ... and 5 Other Myths About Money" to the students of California State University Long Beach on Thursday, September 22, 2011.

You have an amazing personality and great sense of humor. We learned so much about common financial misconceptions, but the great part was that you made it easy to understand and you kept us engaged. It was also pretty nice that you took the time to answer questions from the audience afterwards. As you know, most students are not that excited about personal finance so it was wonderful that you related to the people in the audience and really made us feel like we could participate by asking questions, laughing, and taking notes.

As soon as your presentation was over I started thinking about all of the different conferences and panels that you'd be great for on campus. Based on the written evaluations and verbal feedback, our students really enjoyed the presentation.

I look forward to having you return to Cal State Long Beach.

Best Regards,
